

Sunday Advertiser.

VOL. VII, NO. 180.

HONOLULU, HAWAII TERRITORY, SUNDAY, APRIL 17, 1910. TWENTY PAGES.

Printed and Published for the Proprietor by the Hawaiian Advertiser Co., Ltd., at Honolulu, Hawaii, as Second Class Matter under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

TSAI T'AO IS SPECIALLY HONORED

Chinese Prince Given Unusual Attention While Guest of Honolulu.

VISITED LOCAL FORTS

Gives Thanks to Americans for His Cordial Reception Here.

Prince Tsai T'ao's entertainment in Honolulu, as far as the government is concerned, was the most elaborate ever given to a visitor here by the government. Never before have the federal soldiers, cavalry and infantry, the local militia and local officials, collaborated in such extensive plans to entertain a guest. Special cable instructions were received to honor the Chinese prince, and he was given a reception here which surprised him.

The prince impressed many of those who saw him as being nervous in the presence of crowds. Popular demonstrations in his presence did not seem to appeal to him, and he wanted to retire from public notice. There are elaborate preparations for his reception and entertainment on the mainland, and he will soon encounter much larger crowds than those which seemed to make him nervous here.

The prince took trips about town, and as far as Judd street up Nuuanu, but did not get to the Park. He visited the aquarium and showed much interest in the queer specimens there.

The gardens of Hon. S. M. Damon, at Moanalua, were visited by the prince, and from there the prince was taken to Diamond Head. He was freely escorted all over the new military reservation, saw the big mortars and walked through the tunnel into the interior of Diamond Head.

Prince Tsai T'ao appeared to regard the walk through this tunnel as considerable of an effort, and didn't seem to want any more exercise after getting through with this inspection of the local army work. He showed much interest in the guns and fort plans, which were freely shown to him. The prince's trip is especially for the purpose of studying military affairs all over the world, and he was given every facility here.

Through his secretary, Lord Li, son of the famous Li Hung Chang, Prince Tsai T'ao yesterday gave a statement to the American people through an Advertiser representative. He declined to submit to an "interview," but was willing to be quoted. He wanted to express his thanks for the local reception and entertainment, and to indicate his country's appreciation of the welcome given here for the United States.

About the most positive statement that was made for the prince was that under no circumstances would he discuss international politics. His mission is a military one, as far as it is an official mission at all. He is on a tour of the world to look into military organizations and learn what he may of the methods of the various powers.

To the people and government of Hawaii, the prince left a message expressing his gratitude at their, to him, unexpectedly elaborate and cordial reception. He had not anticipated finding so much of a city here as he did find, and he was pleasantly surprised at its development, and at the reception he was given here.

(Continued on Page Two)

Speaking of Prohibition. Have You Heard McCandless?

TOO SOON TO LOOK FOR COMET

Not Possible to Locate It Yet Without the Use of Telescope.

Various people who have been claiming that they have seen Halley's comet are probably nearly all mistaken. The comet is not visible to the naked eye, in such form as would enable anyone to distinguish it from a star, and won't be for some time yet, says Professor J. S. Donaghio, who has been studying it with glasses.

A number of local people have been rising early during the past week and looking in the direction of the sunrise to get a first glimpse of the comet, and many think they have seen it. It is not distinguishable yet, however, and most of the inexpert observers who think they saw it were probably looking at Venus. It is not distinguishable from an ordinary star, as seen now by the naked eye.

"The approach of the comet is very rapid now," said Professor Donaghio. "As it appears now, as seen by the naked eye, it looks just like a star. By comparing its position on successive nights, it may be easily identified. But it is not much use to look for it with out a telescope at present. It will, however, soon be easily distinguishable."

APOLOGY TO TAFT.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Taft is in receipt of a letter from a leading suffragist begging him to forgive and forget the fact that the convention of suffragists here hissed him when he remarked, upon invitation to speak before their assembly, that he was not altogether in sympathy with the woman suffrage movement.

THIRTEEN SUBMARINED.

TOKYO, April 16.—A Japanese submarine has foundered and thirteen men have been drowned.

GOOD-BYE TO CHINESE PRINCE

Scenes at the Wharf at Departure of the Distinguished Visitor.

Bowing and smiling to the crowd on the wharf, Prince Tsai T'ao bade his adieu to the official hosts who have entertained him during his brief stay in Honolulu, when the Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner Chiyo Maru departed for San Francisco at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. Prior to the departure of the vessel Secretary of the Territory Mott-Smith boarded the vessel and shook hands with the prince and his suite. The Hawaiian band played appropriate selections in honor of the Chinese prince, as well as for the distinguished body of Japanese business men aboard, interspersing the music with selections such as "Rings on My Fingers and Bells on My Toes" and "Honey Boy," and the prince smiled.

There was much bustle and hurry for a half hour before the Chiyo sailed. The automobiles carrying the prince and suite, the military attendants and detectives, the consul and secretaries and reception committees arrived, and the prince was escorted to the upper deck with much ceremony. The upper deck, however, is reserved to the exclusive use of the prince, and only he and his suite remained there, the consul and secretaries and others remaining on the main deck. Colonel Schuyler, however, was asked to remain with the prince. Colonel Schuyler sent word to the detectives to come before the prince.

The detectives included Sheriff Jarrett, Chief McDuffie, Detectives Kelleher, Lake, Apena and Sergeant Barry of the National Guard. Lord Li presented each with a certificate from the prince, and General Ba presented each with a handsome black leather case, with Chinese characters inscribed on the upper left in gold. The recipients were (Continued on page 8.)

MAN HUNT STILL GOING FORWARD

Escaped Murderer Still at Large, but Police Capture His Deserted Pup.

Anderson Grace's yellow pup was the sum total of the results obtained by the police yesterday in their search for the escaped murderer. A half-dozen rumors and reports that came into the station from as many different sources started Sheriff Jarrett and Chief McDuffie on several wild goose chases, and the negro is still at large, with the search narrowing down to such a point that it is believed he will fall into the clasp of the law tonight.

McDuffie was not able to take up the search until four o'clock yesterday afternoon, after the Chiyo Maru had sailed with Prince Tsai T'ao, whom he had been deputed to guard. Then, after having been over twenty-four hours on the job without sleep, he and Sheriff Jarrett started out on a dash into the country which resulted in the accumulation of the yellow pup.

In the morning a trace of the murderer was thought to have been discovered in a house on School street that had been robbed. Jack McGrath reported to McDuffie that his house had been entered in the early hours of the morning and his clothes and some food stolen.

Stole Leisurely.

Captain Olson of the dredger South Bay boards with the McGraths and is in the habit of coming home about four o'clock in the morning, after leaving work. Yesterday morning, however, he was detained, and just about the time he was due the nocturnal visitor arrived.

McGrath states that if he had heard him he would not have paid any attention to him, as he would have thought that it was Olson. The cat, however, came into the room and started to mew vigorously, and after ten minutes or so Mrs. McGrath got up to let the animal out. As she stepped into the kitchen she noticed things had been disarranged, and a glance into Olson's room showed a red Hawaiian quilt on the bed instead of the white spread that had been there. Also Captain Olson was nowhere to be seen.

She at once called her husband and a thorough search of the premises was made.

The house is directly on the Nuuanu stream on Cottage walk, just off School street. The third had come down the stream and finding the first house vacant, pressed on to the next. To look into the window he stared over a bank and beneath it he stood on, and looked in. Seeing the table in the kitchen set for Captain Olson's meal, he decided that he had come to the right premises and started to look into the next room.

What happened immediately after that is doubtful, as under the second window is an unfastened sash that had been taken from a third-story door. As he was seen by the first window, a second man and then still around to the front of the house, looked through the front window and seeing Captain Olson's newspaper had done the best to the window, back the door on the stairs he at the door where it had been left and used it to hold the screen up.

He then climbed over the bed and passed into the kitchen in the rear. There he sat down to the table and ate the sitting, merrily and to the tune of the music that had been prepared for Captain Olson, according to tradition. After breakfast, disposing of his meal he searched around and found McGrath's coat and trousers. He took a lot of food of writing paper and kept McGrath's fountain pen but took the pencils out. (Continued on page 5.)

QUINN WOULD RUN FOR MAYOR

Makes Formal Announcement of His Candidacy and States His Policy and Views.

FOR MUNICIPAL BUILDING

Would Raise Money on Bonds to Carry on Public Works on Business Basis.

"I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for the mayoralty and I wish The Advertiser would so announce," said Supervisor Quinn last night. "I am now definitely in the running and I want the people to know it."

For some time it has been intimated in a general sort of way among the politicians that Supervisor Quinn would not dodge any nomination for Mayor Fern's shoes that might come his way, but his declaration last night to The Advertiser is the first definite statement in the matter that has been made. It is, as a matter of fact, the first clear-cut announcement made by any of the several candidates supposed to be in the field for the Republican nomination.

Mr. Quinn has definite ideas on the duties of the mayor of the city and county and has a clearly outlined program of what he wants to do to lay before the people. He gave this in a concise way last night, along with the announcement of his candidacy.

"The people of Honolulu and the party know pretty well where I stand on the various questions of the day," he said. "When I was up for election to the board of supervisors I promised the voters that I would work for good roads and for a businesslike administration of city affairs. I believe that I can say conscientiously that Oahu has many more good roads today than we had before I became chairman of the roads committee and these roads have been built as economically as was possible under the system. As for business principles in the board, I think the general public knows that I have done what I could to have the business of the public done in a business way."

"I believe that there are a number of things that could be done to improve general conditions in Honolulu, and, if I am nominated and elected, I will work for these."

"In the first place I would advocate the enactment of a statute in the legislature giving to the city and county the right to bond the city for funds for public improvements. If we had money to spend in a number of directions we could do more work at less cost than at present. I believe that we should have money to go right ahead with the completion of the belt road. If that work could be undertaken as a whole and pushed right through to completion, the final cost would not be more than fifty per cent of what it will cost if built under the present system, while it will be completed years sooner. (Continued on Page Five.)

DEATH OF C. E. WILLIAMS IN SAN FRANCISCO

A cablegram received by H. H. Williams yesterday announced the death of his father, C. E. Williams, in San Francisco on Friday. Deceased was a leprosy here. He came to Honolulu in 1851 and remained until the gold excitement in Australia when he went to the gold hills there returning here in 1857. He established the first furniture business in Honolulu and was one of the early chiefs of the fire department and was prominent in Masonic circles. He was a man of sterling qualities whose word was as good as his bond. He was a man of kindly ways and charitable disposition and a good citizen of Hawaii. He took up his permanent residence in San Francisco in 1892 making occasional trips to the Islands for his health. He was about eighty-five years old at the time of his death. Two sons and four daughters survive him.

The house is directly on the Nuuanu stream on Cottage walk, just off School street. The third had come down the stream and finding the first house vacant, pressed on to the next. To look into the window he stared over a bank and beneath it he stood on, and looked in. Seeing the table in the kitchen set for Captain Olson's meal, he decided that he had come to the right premises and started to look into the next room.

What happened immediately after that is doubtful, as under the second window is an unfastened sash that had been taken from a third-story door. As he was seen by the first window, a second man and then still around to the front of the house, looked through the front window and seeing Captain Olson's newspaper had done the best to the window, back the door on the stairs he at the door where it had been left and used it to hold the screen up.

He then climbed over the bed and passed into the kitchen in the rear. There he sat down to the table and ate the sitting, merrily and to the tune of the music that had been prepared for Captain Olson, according to tradition. After breakfast, disposing of his meal he searched around and found McGrath's coat and trousers. He took a lot of food of writing paper and kept McGrath's fountain pen but took the pencils out. (Continued on page 5.)

TAFT THINKS ONE TERM ENOUGH

Announces That Being President Is Not All It Is Cracked Up to Be.

WANTS NO SECOND TERM

Makes Frank Statement That He Will Have Had Enough When 1913 Comes.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—President Taft, after concluding one year of his presidential term, has come to the opinion that the cares of the office outweigh all the honors and that the difficulties to be overcome are too many for the pleasures there are in the work. Such is the impression created by the speech delivered here last night by the President at a banquet at which he was the guest of honor.

"One term is enough for me," he said in conclusion of a lengthy address, in which he outlined the troubles of the head executive of the Nation and referred to the attacks made upon him and his cabinet from so many sides.

DINNER GUEST OF AUSTRIAN RULER

Roosevelt Honored in Vienna—Will Leave for Hungarian Capital Today.

VIENNA, April 17.—Emperor Franz Joseph was the host yesterday of Colonel Roosevelt, entertaining the distinguished American at a dinner given in the Hofburg, the imperial palace.

The Roosevelt party leave today for Budapest, being one day ahead of the schedule planned. The party will spend three days in the Hungarian capital and will then leave for Paris.

DIAS LOSES HIS FOREIGN MINISTER

CITY OF MEXICO, April 17.—Senor Don Ignacio Mariscal, the secretary of foreign affairs in the Mexican government, is dead.

ROOSEVELT DECLINES EMPEROR'S INVITATION

VIENNA, April 16.—Colonel Roosevelt has declined an invitation to go hunting birds with the Emperor, giving as his excuse that he had a previous engagement to receive a number of Americans residing in this city.

GENEVA, April 16.—An anarchist was placed under arrest here today under suspicion that he had designs on the life of the American ex-President, Colonel Roosevelt.

FOOTBALL FATALITY.

ANNAPOLIS, April 16.—Midshipman Wilson of the navy team, who was injured in a football game against Princeton last November, died here today.

JUDGE WAYMIRE DEAD.

ALAMEDA, April 16.—Judge Waymire, a prominent jurist of California, died here today.

CALHOUN IN PEKING.

PEKING, April 16.—American Ambassador Calhoun arrived today.

FOURTH GAME IN JEWEL-JAP SERIES

The fourth game of the Jewel-J. A. series comes off this afternoon at the Honolulu Athletic Park, and from all indications a record crowd will be out to witness the game. No pains have been spared in getting the park into condition, and the grounds never were in a better condition.

The Japs will play practically the same team as they did last Sunday, the only change being at short, Josiah taking Maana's place, while Maana goes to first.

Permutation has been indicated for the Japs to use Earle Sentes as a backstop today, and with Lennie behind the bat Lesbe ought to pitch a home run consistent game.

Public Keweenaw, the Jewel's star, and perhaps the best first baseman in the Islands, is away on Maana and Maana's place, while Maana goes to first.

The funeral of Mary Reading Nohi will take place from Williams' undertaking establishment at three o'clock this afternoon.

Colonel Schuyler, U. S. A. Prince Tsai T'ao. Lord Li. Secretary Mott Smith. PRINCE TSAI T'AO AND PARTY LISTEN TO THE SALUTE.